"Senior Year"

By Becky Burne

*So quick, so special
Yet so full of confusion.*

Then reassurance...

The onset of a smile.

Old friends, new friends, great friends,

Fun parties, cool cars,

Full futures.

Parents, classes, pressures

Senior year...

Goodbye RMHS.

It seemed so big.
A new world to explore,
As a lowly freshman.
The year passed and the World shrunk down
To a comfortable size.
Soon everyone knew where to Go, and how to get there,
And settled in.
No longer a new world,
Just everyday life.
For two more years
We enjoyed our world
Secure in the niches
That we had developed.
Any newness was forgotten.
Then suddenly, the world
Was too comfortable.
Familiarity bred contempt,
The fourth year heralded change
It was time to leave.
Now it seems so small.
The once-endless corridors
Have dwindled,
Instead of giving space
They box us in.
It's time to go
Into another new world.
Time is carrying us on.
With us, however, travel
All of the good memories
From our high school world.

-Erin McCormack

Dedication

Few members of the Class of '88 have not experienced Mr. Robert Dunbar. Many of us first met Mr. Dunbar when we were freshmen and enrolled in one of his classes or his study hall. With his kind and cheerful smile, he offered advice and gave us directions through the maze of corridors which comprise the high school. During sophomore year, Mr. Dunbar became, for many of us, more than a friendly face; he fascinated us with his lectures and discussions in U.S. History. After sophomore year rolled by and we had mastered history skills, even more of us encountered Mr. Dunbar in Human Behavior. There, beyond the curriculum, we were treated to that grandfatherly advice about life, which so many of us will long remember. As seniors, those of us considering careers in education had the opportunity to experience the classroom from the other perspective; this was through enrollment in Elementary School Seminar advised by Mr. Dunbar.

Mr. Dunbar's contributions to our lives extend beyond the classroom. Through the dancing, acting, writing, and museum visiting of the METRO Pathways program, advised by him, some of us have been able to experience and begin to appreciate the vast cultural life and differences of Boston. His unrelenting sponsorship of the blood mobile has also deepened our appreciation of life.

After thirty-one years of such dedication to the students of RMHS, Mr. Dunbar is retiring. We, the Class of '88, extend our thanks and dedicate Pioneer '88 to him.

Special Thanks

The Class of '88 began its sophomore year with a low bank account and a new advisor. Without any prior experience but with her energetic, enthusiastic, and friendly manner, Mrs. Susan Fritz took on the heavy task of class advisor and helped bring our class together as a unit. Her many hours of anxious worry and planning contributed to the success of our activities.

At the beginning of junior year, Miss Linda Rozzi joined Mrs. Fritz as co-advisor to the class. Her quiet organization and efficiency helped make the next two years even more successful.

As we depart RMHS, the Class of '88 extends its heartfelt gratitude to these two teachers, who have given so much of themselves.

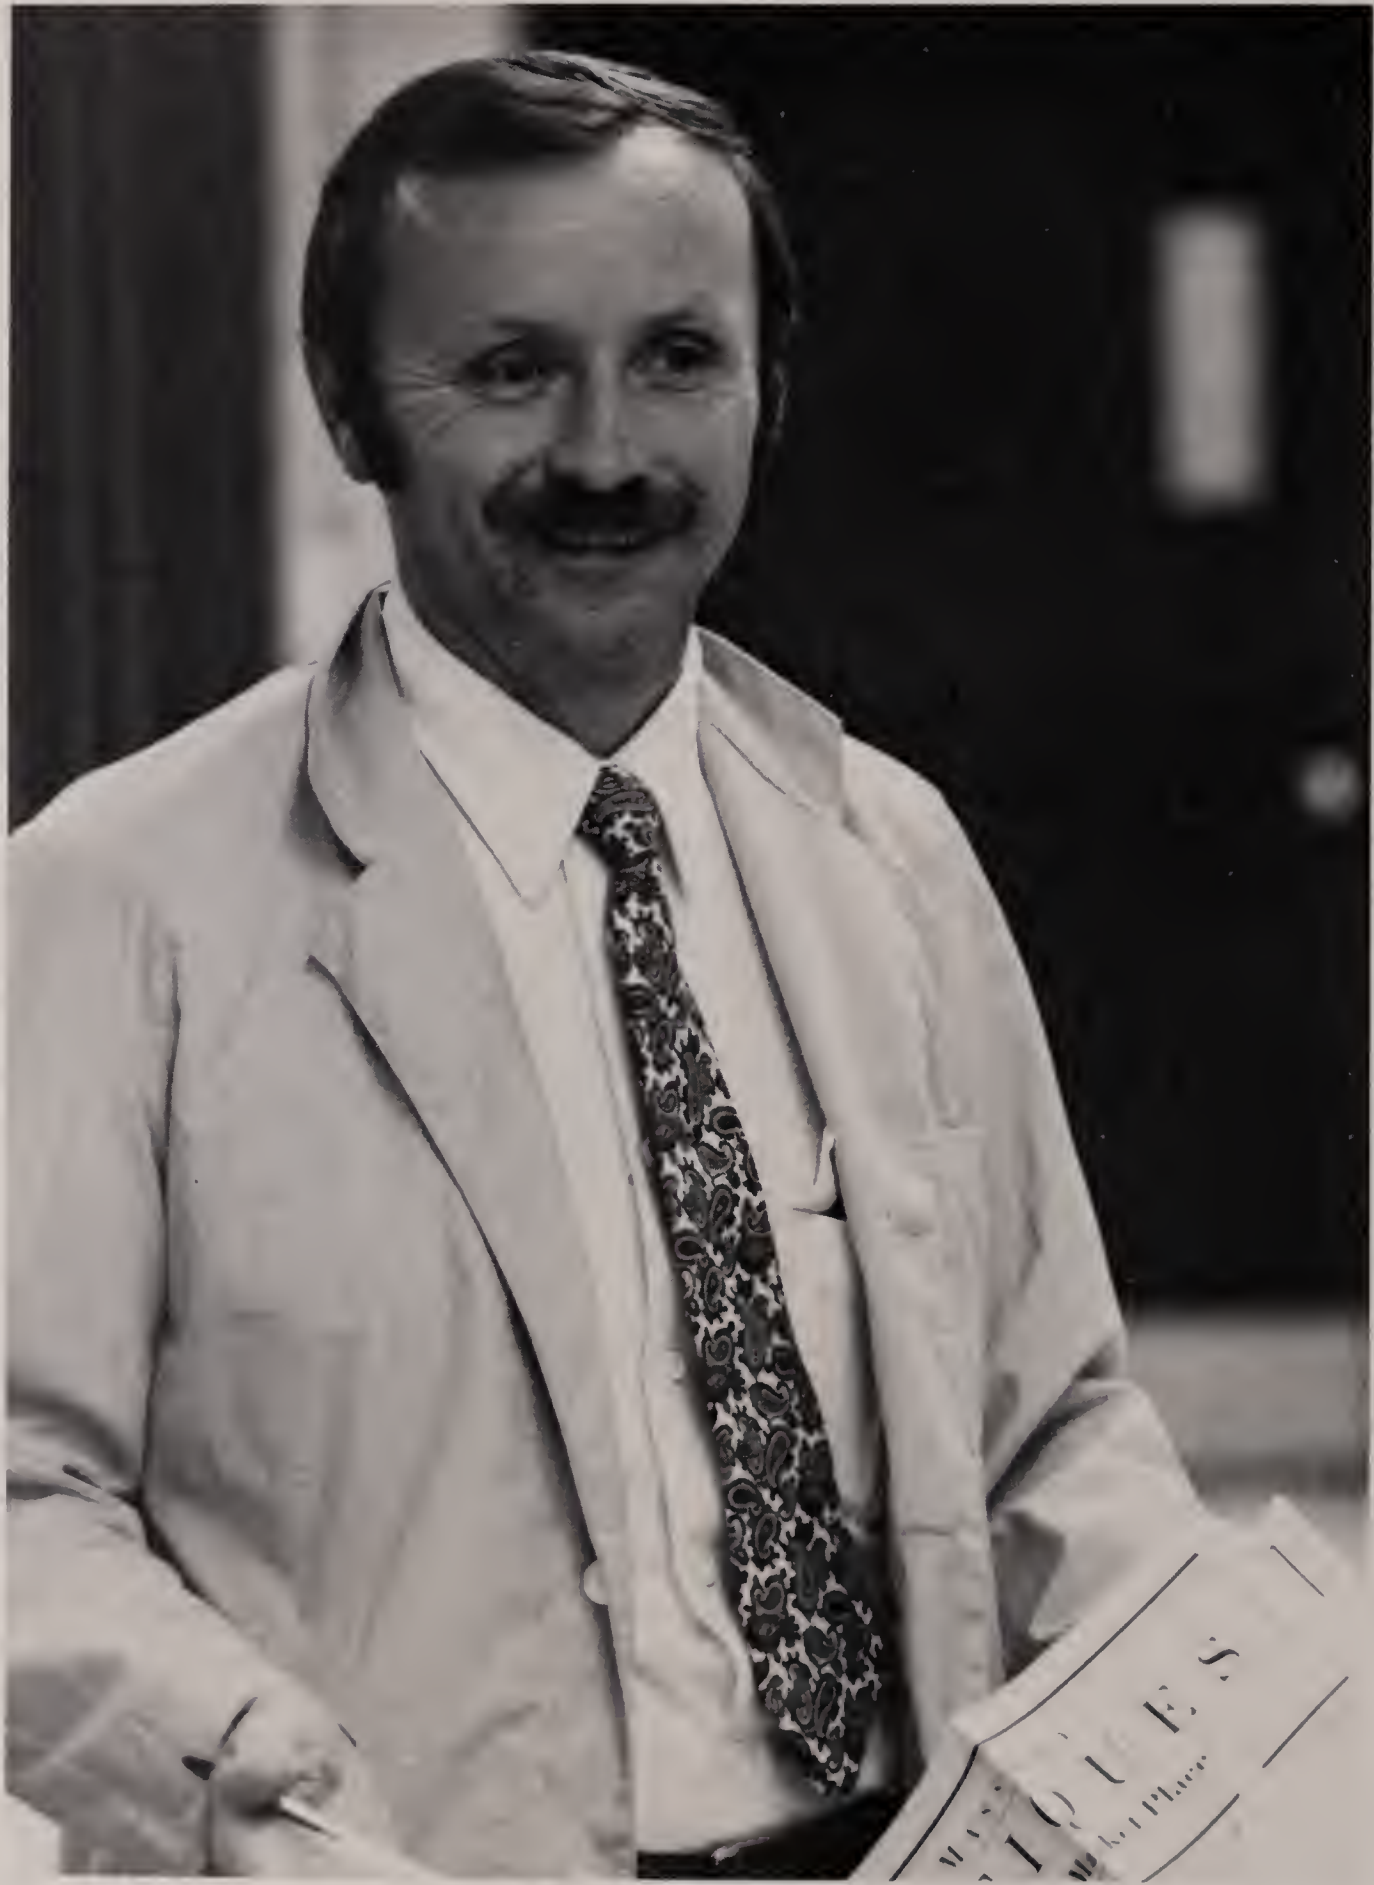

Most students at RMHS know only the sound of Mrs. Hilda Ahlstrom, the Voice of RMHS, as she calls students to the office, summons janitors, and announces cancellations of sporting events. Few of us, perhaps, would recognize her outside the main office, where she has worked for most of the past fourteen years. In that time, however, she has done more than make announcements.

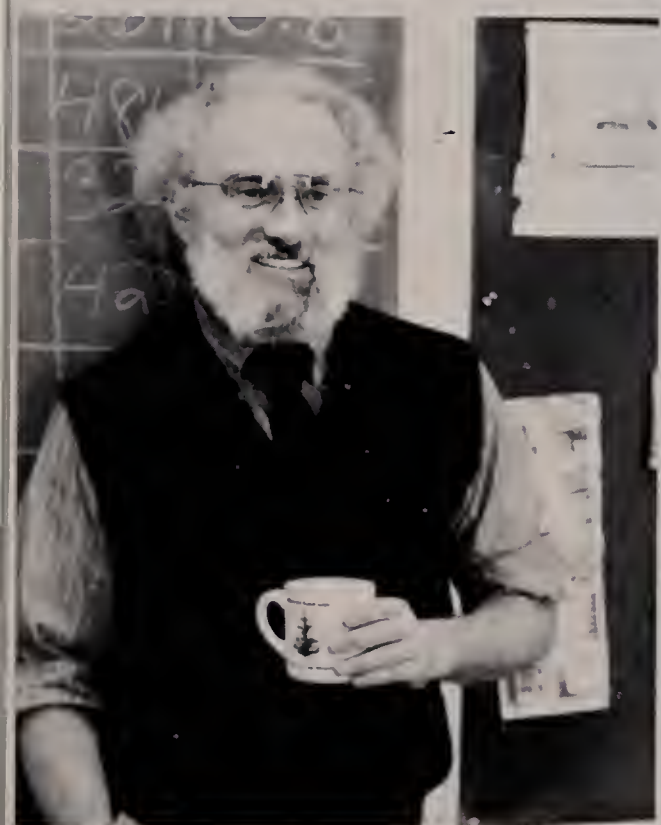

Beyond executing her many secretarial duties, Mrs. Ahlstrom with her friendly smile has often been the first person encountered by the trembling freshman who lost his schedule or forgot his locker combination. She has been the font of information for students, parents, and teachers alike. If Mrs. Ahlstrom did not know the answer, probably no one did. She has been invaluable to the smooth functioning of this school.

As Mrs. Ahlstrom retires from RMHS, the Class of '88 thanks her and wishes her the best of good fortune.

Mr. Philip Blum is a physics teacher who has taught for eighteen years. Born in Gloversville, New York he attended Brooklyn College for his B.A. and New York University, where he earned his M.S.

Mr. Blum is married with two children, a son and a daughter. Although his children already have other careers, he wouldn't have minded if they entered teaching, if that's what they wanted. Mr. Blum himself was a research physicist for eighteen years prior to teaching.

The most memorable experience that Mr. Blum has had as a teacher was winning first, second, and third places in the New England Physics Prize Competition in 1986.

The funniest thing that Mr. Blum found when he first started teaching was that when his students raised their hands, he thought they were showing their interest in physics. Actually, they were always just asking to go to the bathroom.

When asked what his wishes are for the future class of 88, Mr. Blum replied that he would like to see them lead happy, productive lives, but mostly to just be happy.

SCIENCE

SCIENCE

Kevin Joseph Zenewicz, beloved science teacher at RMHS, has been in the business for 18 years. He attributes his pursuit of teaching to the variety of experiences it has brought to him.

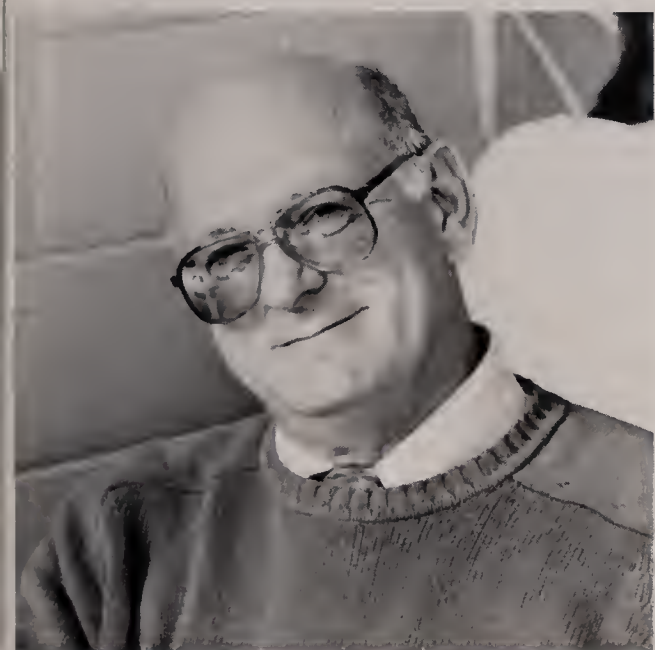

"It's always something different," says Zenewicz.

Among those "different" experiences is the time he wore two different shoes to school and the time one of his more brilliant students looked down the barrel of a bunsen burner while lighting it, singeing his hair and eyebrows in the process.

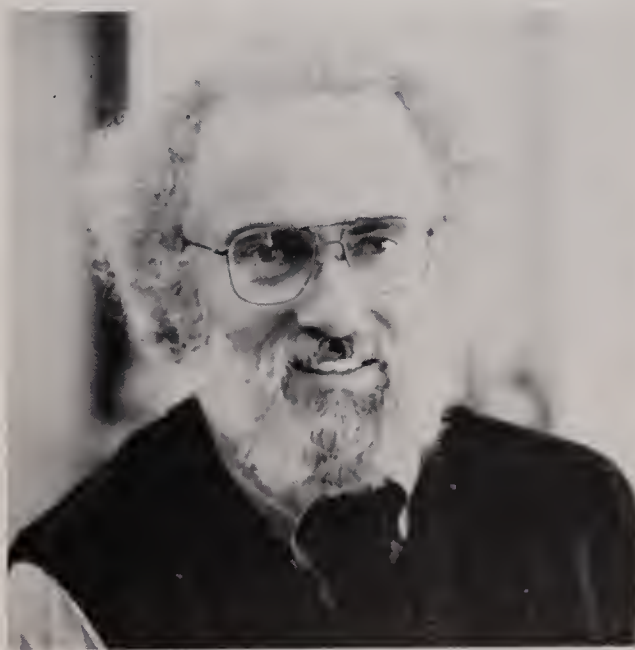

The molding of this great mind began at Belmont High. Mr. Zenewicz described his high school environment as very enjoyable. After high school he then went on to higher education at Boston College and Northeastern.

He now resides in Reading with his wife and two daughters. Aside from a successful teaching career, Mr. Zenewicz also runs a lumber yard.

Finally the key to success, according to Zenewicz, is to ask questions and show curiosity and enthusiasm.

Who is the real BAPS?

Beneath the facade of the mild-mannered social studies teacher, Bruce Appleby is a wild and crazy guy, who has spent the last twenty-five years teaching. When asked if he liked teaching, he said, "Dumb question, of course I do." Obviously he is crazy.

Residing in Tewksbury, he enjoys married life and constantly being impressed by the accomplishments of his two sons. Kent, who is twenty-one, is following in his father's footsteps as a teaching assistant; his other son David, eighteen, has just begun the road to completing his education at R.I.T.

In the beginning, when Mr. Appleby was at Watertown High School, he dreamed of attending Bowdin College in Brunswick, Maine. But in the end it was not a dream but reality, when half way through his senior year young Bruce received a thick envelope containing an early decision acceptance to Bowdin.

Following an interesting college career he entered Boston University to acquire his master's degree. Beyond his classroom teaching, Mr. Appleby has made many contributions to RMHS including coaching boy's tennis. His favorite class, besides the class of 1988, is Western Civ. Regarding the class of 1988, he hopes that they respect one another and allow for the uniqueness of each person.

STUDIES

When people hear the name Mr. Swanson, they associate with it many different adjectives — among them, excited, enthusiastic, outgoing, and even spastic. Anyone who has had him for class has witnessed his lively teaching style. Robert Swanson explains there are many reasons for this. The first is that he loves the subject of history, and the second is that he enjoys working with kids. He is happy with his job and adds "Teaching is a constant adventure, and each day carries a new surprise or outcome."

He has had many humorous and interesting experiences but remembers one particular example which occurred recently. It was after addressing his students before giving them grades, telling them that if they didn't like their grades, too bad. Accept them with a smile and thank him anyway. One of his students obeyed, and upon receiving his grade he kissed Mr. Swanson on the head.

When reflecting back to his high school days, Mr. Swanson remembers trying to stay out of trouble, while having fun and still receiving good grades in English and history.

For the class of '88 he wishes happiness and health and adds, "If they have that, they've got it all."

Who is the mysterious celebrity lurking in the English department? The man that has been in an innumerable number of plays including "The Crucible" in the lead role as John Proctor, "The Diary of Anne Frank" as the father, "All My Sons" first as Joe Keller, then as Chris Keller and "Equus" as Dr. Dysant. This mystery man who has been a member of the Quannapowitt Players for twenty-eight years is Harold E Bond. Mr. Bond finds his outside hobby extremely enjoyable and anyone who has had him for class has seen his talent displayed many times while reading such plays as "Romeo and Juliet."

Mr. Bond received an undergraduate degree in English from Northeastern University and a master in English from Boston University. From there he came to RMHS where he has remained for thirty-two years.

Mr. Bond enjoys teaching Shakespeare but adds that the students in a particular class can alter how enjoyable it is. The highlight of his job as a teacher comes to Mr. Bond when he sees his students practicing what he's been trying to teach them.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Bond warned his four children of the occupational hazards of teaching one of four children is a teacher anyway.

After his teaching career is done, it is rumored, Mr. Bond may be the next replacement for his brother, James, as 007.

Heading up the English Department one finds Ronald Neil Howland. A graduate of Harvard University, Mr. Howland has been teaching for fifteen years. When asked if he liked teaching he replied, "Yes, I'm deranged!"

Mr. Howland's favorite class to teach is The Twenties and Thirties because the time period the literature is from is both interesting and informative. It is also rumored through reliable but unrevealable sources that another reason he enjoys this particular class is that he is a Hemingway fanatic.

Aside from teaching, Mr. Howland says that he's done it all as far as odd jobs go. He's painted houses, packed books and even cleaned toilets at Harvard in order to pay for tuition.

He recalls two memorable events in high school. The first is finishing fourth in the state, in the long jump. The second is that he jumped so high during a basketball game, he was called for goal tending. He was then asked why a call against him was a memorable experience. He cleared the question up by saying, "I couldn't believe that I jumped that high, and that was the memorable part of it."

Masters in English from Salem State, Mr. Croft has been teaching English at RMHS for eighteen years. Mr. Croft admits that he enjoys teaching although, he adds "it's not all milk and cookies." He includes also that students with a sense of humor who can laugh at themselves are the most enjoyable to have in class. He enjoys teaching American Literature and particularly enjoys teaching Idea of Man because of the challenge it offers.

When asked what other life experiences he has had, Mr. Croft answered that he has been a cab driver and a marine. These experiences as well as that of teaching have exposed him to many aspects of human nature. He believes that the key to a happy life is to live life in a light fashion, to have a sense of humor and to try not to be perfect.

If one is too serious about life, he or she will end up disappointed, confused, and frustrated. He concluded by saying that a mediocre person can be a success if he works hard. The successful Reading track program (coached by Mr. Croft for the past sixteen undefeated years) is proof of this.

Mr. Croft was recently inducted into the Track Hall of Fame; he is the youngest coach to ever receive this honor.

Among the excellent math faculty at RMHS, stands Virginia K. Brogna, a woman who considers herself lucky to enjoy her profession.

Mrs. Brogna reveals a quiet humor beneath her solemnness. She remembers the time she appeared at school with a forgotten curler hanging from the back of her head.

Mrs. Brogna, educated at Melrose High where she was a guard on the undefeated basketball team, went on to Regis and then Boston College for her master's degree.

Eleven of her fourteen years of teaching have been happily spent in Reading. Although she won't admit which class is her favorite, she does like teaching Algebra II.

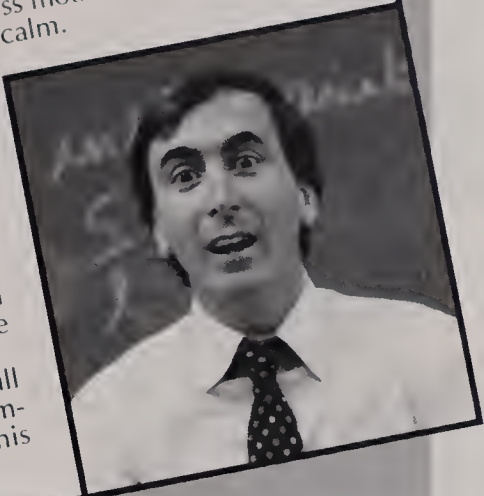

Presently living in Belmont, she is the proud mother of three, ages twenty-two, twenty, and eighteen. Her one hope for her students is that they find true friends in life.

Perhaps one of the teachers best received by his students at RMHS is Phil Vaccaro. Mr. Vaccaro's laid back style and humor as well as his ability to communicate with kids make him an excellent and extremely likeable teacher. Mr. Vaccaro attributes his sense of humor to his easygoingness and he says it greatly reduces stress on the job.

Coming from teaching at Somerville High six years ago, he described himself as almost "burnt out". "The climate in Somerville was much different. There were inner-city problems, and students were much more calm. Reading, Vaccaro says, things are much more calm. Originally graduating at Lowell Tech to be an engineer, Mr. Vaccaro decided on a teaching career because he wanted to work with kids. This desire came from his work at camps while in college. Besides teaching he also coaches the boy's varsity soccer team and officiates basketball and soccer games. Some advice he gives to the graduating class is to prepare for the future by leaving all doors open. Don't put all your eggs in one basket.

Students who have had Mr. Vaccaro will never forget him and will wonder to themselves if he is still saying, "What is this anyhow?"

Susan Fritz

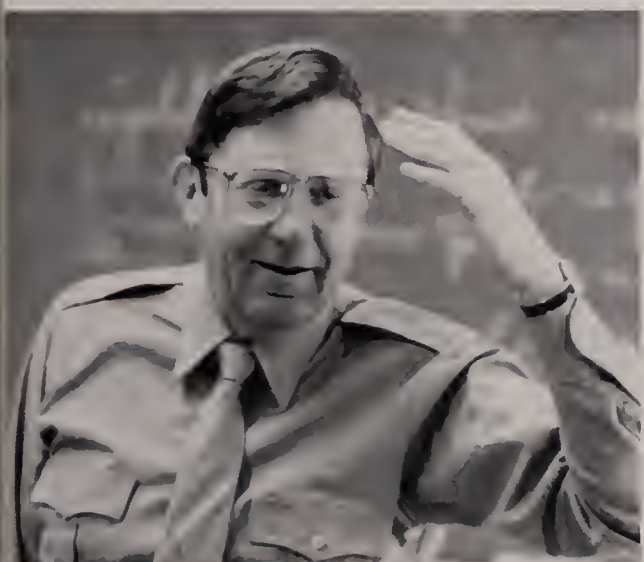

A graduate of Gordon College, Robert Paul Donovan began his teaching career here at Reading High School eighteen years ago. Beyond teaching Spanish, Mr. Donovan has contributed other talents by serving as advisor to the Photography Club and assisting with productions of the Drama Club. It is the area of theatrical make-up which particularly attracts Mr. Donovan because, as he says, "When it is done well, one can create a completely different looking person."

Regarding teaching, Mr. Donovan explains that he tries to guide students into learning. "A good teacher," he adds, "doesn't simply instruct but allows a person to experience."

For the Class of '88, he hopes that in the future, they will measure success in terms of humanity first and money second.

The bell rings and suddenly summer is over. Homework, papers, tests, and quizzes are all back on everyone's mind before the memories of summer even have a chance to fade. Okay, so school isn't the most exciting thing ever invented, but the first day is always fun right! Right?

This September the foreign language department received a most welcome addition, Mrs. Conchy Fajardo-Hopkins. But the students were not so enthralled. Not only did they have to break in this new teacher, but it was going to be trouble just to learn how to spell her long name.

Mrs. Fajardo-Hopkins grew up in Cuba and St. Louis, Missouri. She lived in Ohio until recently when she moved to Massachusetts. She is presently living in Wilmington.

Mrs. Fajardo-Hopkins is married and has two children. Her son Philip is five, and her daughter Isa Marie is four. When asked if she would like her children to be teachers when they are older, she had a definite no. She believes that respect and gratitude are lacking in the teaching profession.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Fajardo-Hopkins enjoys teaching and has been teaching for thirteen years. One of the funniest moments she remembers is the time a Spanish class turned French. Mrs. Fajardo-Hopkins walked into the Spanish class she was teaching and began speaking in French. She rambled on for five minutes before realizing her mistake.

Business

Who is that tall, dark haired, suave man standing among those word processors and dedicated accounting students? It's Richard Charles Gillis, a familiar sight in and about the halls of Reading High for the past twenty-two years. In those years, Mr. Gillis has been involved in many different extracurricular activities. He has served as head basketball coach for ten years, coached track (before Mr. Croft). Presently he is serving as coach of the varsity golf team.

Mr. Gillis states that he enjoys teaching and adds, "It keeps me young." He also says that high school students are his favorite to work with. His favorite class to teach is, "Accounting, by far."

Looking back at his own high school days, Mr. Gillis remembers them as good times spent with friends or on the sports field. Finally, Mr. Gillis hopes that the Class of '88 will first graduate and then move on to be successful. That way, they can come back some day and share the wealth with him.

Sophomore year starts, and we begin a new gym section, Project Adventure. Walking outside to the small hill beside the tennis courts, we see a tiny lady standing on top of a rather tall telephone pole, waving to Mr. Myslicki. He calls her to jump, and everyone gasps as she does so. Some one in the crowd cries, "Oh, God!" when she catches a trapeze swing with the tips of her fingers. Then we hear the "Wow's". The guys are astounded that a woman could do something like that, but that is what Mrs. Maureen LeClaire is all about. Mrs. LeClaire has no regrets about being a past inmate of Reading High and came back after attending Northeastern University. She has dedicated the past eighteen years of her life to furthering the physical education of all of Reading's students. For some unknown reason Mrs. LeClaire is all about. "The whole reason I've stayed here," she asserts, "is because I love to watch the kids mature and pull their lives together and I love being a part of it." The single event she will always remember is getting the pumpkins from the Class of '86. She was surprised, but as she puts it, "It was all in good fun." For the Class of '88, "Here's hoping for good health, happiness and success."

If you've ever poked your head into the room behind the librarian's desk, you will see an abundance of VCR's, video cameras, slide projectors, TV's, and countless slide carousels. Behind the desk with a ten-pound aspirin tablet on top, sits a bearded man who turns and as always smiles as he asks, "Can I help you?"

Joseph F. Cain, a graduate of Boston College, walked through the doors of RMHS in 1973. When asked why he chose to work here, Reading's revered Media Specialist replied, "The kids, they're great!" He loves the kids here and is always ready to lend a helpful hand to anyone with an audio visual presentation. Offering advice for the class of '88, Mr. Cain says, "There is only one thing that they need and it is happiness."

106	Lexington	39
103½	Belmont	41½
110	Woburn	35
110	Wakefield	34
120	Winchester	25
118	Watertown	26
122	Burlington	23
120	Melrose	24
111½	Stoneham	33½

The scene is a familiar one, the boys spring track team accepting the plaque for another undefeated victory of the Middlesex League. The record now stands at sixteen season's without a loss as the dynasty keeps continuing and building. In the forefront of victory, quad-captain Greg Duffy, broke the record in the highjump recording 6-10½ and also recorded numerous firsts in the 400 meters and was the fastest leg of the 4x400 at the anchor spot. Quad-captain Derek Sanford had his share of first places as well, capturing first in most of the dual meet in both the triple jump and the 100 meter dash. Sanford was also the anchor of the very successful 4x100 relay. The other two captains, Carl McFadden and John Mello showed strength in each of the hurdles. McFadden was the top ranked 300 meter hurdle runner in the Middlesex League and was undefeated for the season. McFadden was also a member of the 4x400 relay team. Mello's strength was in the 100 meter hurdles and was also outstanding in the league. An undefeated season cannot happen though, with just a few leaders. Depth was the name of the game for the Rockets tracksters. Joe Castelli was a league all-star in the poll vault breaking the school record by vaulting an amazing 136. Bob Stone, in the shot put was also a valuable asset to the team coming through in many clutch performances to aid the team in victory.

GIRLS SPRING TRACK

The girls 1987 spring track team had a solid season with 6 wins and 3 losses. Led by captains Ellen Cutter and Joy Pfeiffer, the team had some outstanding performances.

Karen Carcia triple-jumped 31 feet and 113/4 inches for a new school record. The 4x400 relay team of Ellen Cutter, Amy Harootian, Erin Croft, and Andrea Hall set a new State Class B record with a time of 4:06. Robin Murphy threw 103 feet in javelin.

Many people contributed consistently to the team. Multitalented Andrea Hall high-jumped and ran the 400, as well as the relay. Paula Martins starred in the 300 hurdles and discus. Susan Curry excelled in the shot put. Ellen Cutter, Karin Anderson, Jenn Forest, Kerry Buckley, and Erin McCormack strongly represented the team in distance events. Talented sprinters like Erin Croft, Mary Connolly, and Paula Bendekian garnered many points.

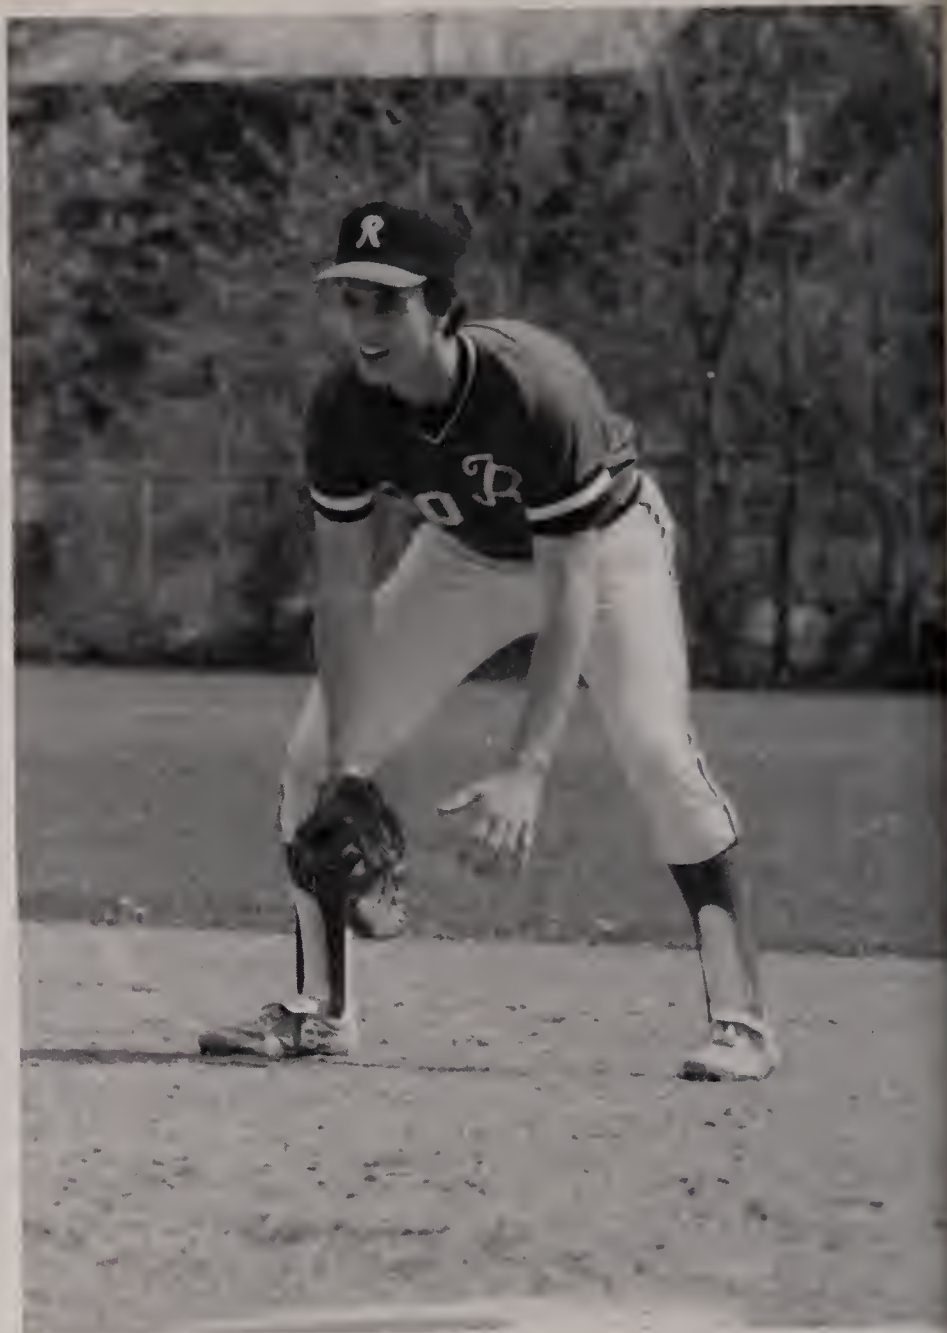

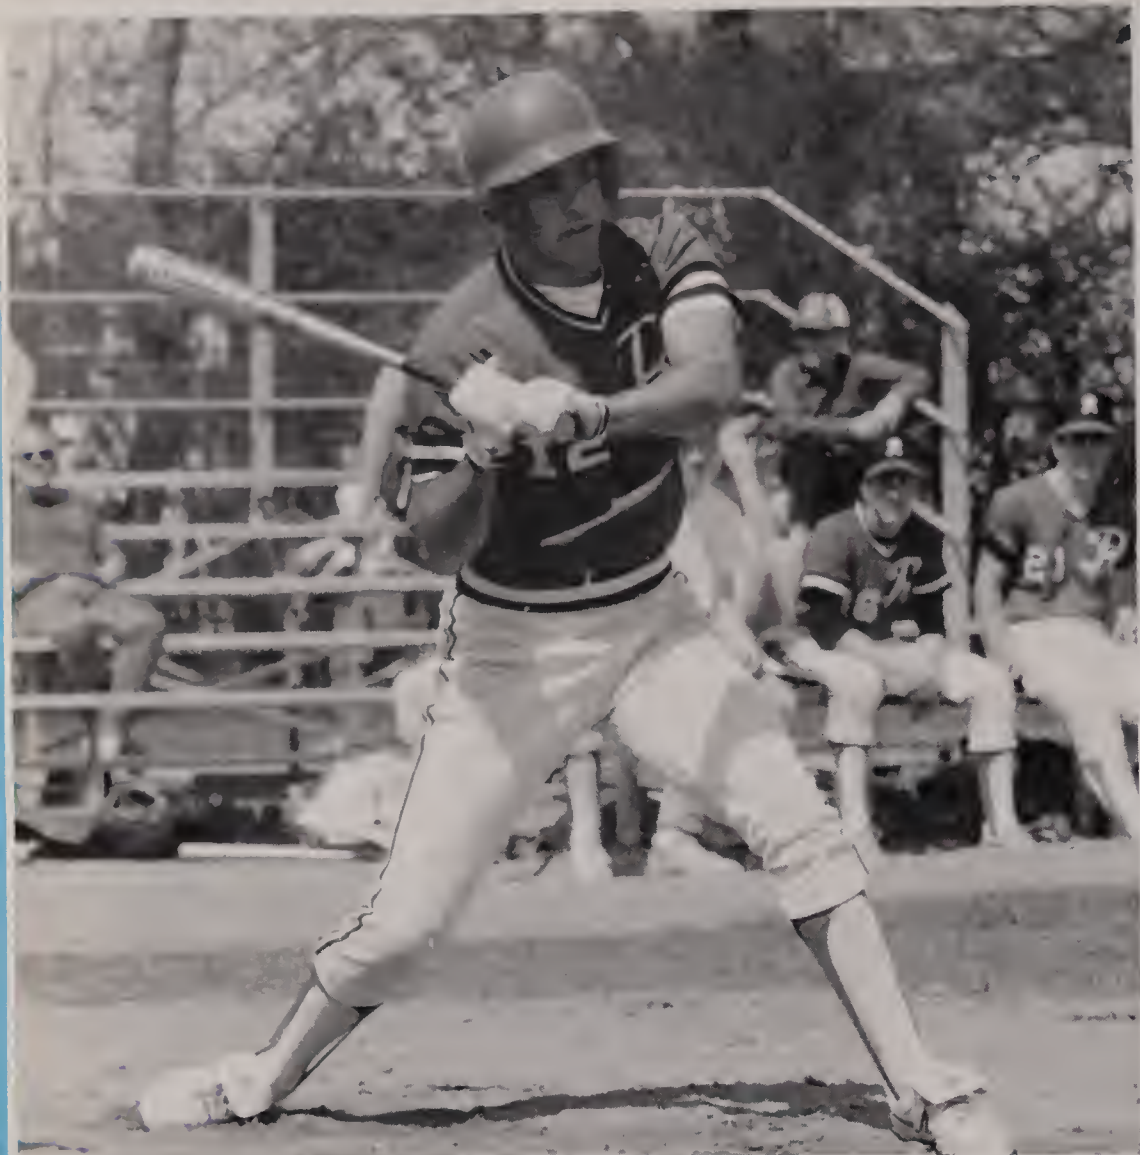

Elected as captains for 1988 were: Karin Anderson, Andrea Hall, and Paula Martins. They will lead the team to a successful season in '88.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

Katie Quinn pitches her heart out.

Steve Rhodes with the casual look.

The girls softball team had another outstanding season in '87. All around outstanding performances came from many players. Led by Katie Quinn on the mound, who pitched all but 3 innings the whole season, the team had a strong foundation with Quinn becoming one of the most threatening pitchers to be faced by batters in the league. Also strong was center fielder and pinch runner Jannine Crispo who could be found grabbing many outstanding catches, Cathy Tucker at both the catcher and outfield positions, Cristina Falcione at short stop, Beth Moxcey at third, Nicole Sinclair at second and Doreen Daly at Left Field. Although the offensive game for the Rockettes was slightly weaker then past years the team managed to sport some many fine batting averages and performances by Cathy Tucker, Cristina Falcione and Nicole Sinclair. Leading the team on for the '88 season will be captains Katie Quinn and Beth Moxcey.

BOYS TENNIS

The RMHS Boy's Tennis team continued their tradition of success with a strong third place finish last spring. The team was lead by the fiery efforts of John Harutunian. With John's help the team upset Lexington in the league opener, and continued to frustrate teams with fine doubles play by seniors Mark Karonis, Eric Doherty, Scott Hayes, and John Harutunian. In the singles department, Juniors Mark Roberts and Peter Harutunian, along with sophomore stand-out Ron Graziosa were able to secure victories for team. This spring, the boy's team sets its sights on a first place finish, with the help of returning lettermen.

FIELD HOCKEY

Although this year's Field Hockey team had a less than successful season, their record was no indication of their on-field performance. Led by co-captains Paula Martins and Cathy Tucker, the team worked hard and with much determination to adapt to a new coach, Gigi Graham. Dedication held the team together through the first half of the season, and they were able to improve during their second half with four ties and two wins. Goalies Sharon DaSilva and Denise Miola were able to keep the chances for victory during the season close by with some fantastic saves and deflections. Congratulations to Paula Martins and Cathy Tucker, as they were chosen to represent Reading in the All-Star game.

GIRLS' SOCCER

Under the leadership of Sue McMahon, Beth Moxcey, and first year coach Jim White, the 1987 girls' varsity soccer team faced many challenges. Going against a tough Middlesex League, the relatively young team, only in it's fourth season, felt they had to prove their worth. However, despite the disappointment of their record, the team never lost their spirit.

The seniors that fueled the Rockettes held their ground in some very difficult games, with some help from sophomore goalie, Lisa Hopkins. Paula Bendikian, Andrea Hall, Erica Thompson, Karin Anderson, Patti Harootian, and Jeanmarie Rindone contributed to the season even though the scoreboard may not show it. The entire team put up some good fights throughout the season, never letting their record get the best of them. All in all, the season did help eight senior girls to leave their senior year with some great memories and good friends.

FOOTBALL

Football, some say it's a simplistic game where eleven barbaric guys don plastic pads and helmets, go onto a field and beat each other up until the dainty running backs or sly receivers put an odd shaped ball into the endzone. To top that off, the ball isn't even touched by a foot until after the touchdown, when the kicker kicks the ball between the uprights.

Well that's not what Reading High football is all about. Although their record was not exactly up to par this year, great determination and hard work went into this football team by each individual on the team.

On Thanksgiving Day, the scene was set for a classic matchup. After eleven consecutive wins over Stoneham, it seemed possible that Reading could lose this year. That was, until the team noticed the artwork of some over-zealous Spartans as they pulled in the parking lot. Suddenly the tension mounted between the two teams. There were no longer any doubts. The Rockets' fan knew that the Stoneham High football team would have a long ride home, and no one would have an appetite for a turkey dinner after this game. The Rockets showed some superb skills that day with a number of interceptions in the endzones, completed passes, and all around good team work.

Led by captain Jeff Dorandi, who completed his three year career with well over 200 tackles, the team practiced hard all season and were finally able to reap their harvest on Thanksgiving Day. A well deserved 14-7, and memorable, victory over Stoneham, keeping the eleven year old tradition going.

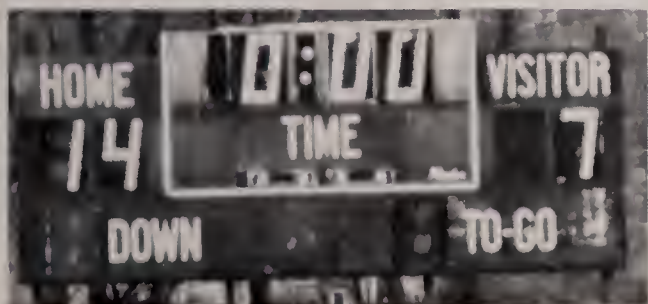

Jeff was named to the All-Middlesex League Team, while Bob O'Brien, Scott Allen, Dave Deyarmond, Mike Sewall, and Derek Sorbello all recieved honorable mention.

BOYS' SOCCER

Coming off three straight years of State Tournament births the 1987 boys' varsity soccer team compiled a disappointing record of six wins, eleven losses and one tie. But this is not to say there weren't any highlights to this season. Senior goalies Dan Hufford and Pat Fennelly came up with some spectacular saves to preserve wins against teams such as Woburn, Melrose, and Watertown. Much of the offense for Reading was sparked by juniors Eric Bennett, Andrew Ines and sophmores Norman Hall, Peter Scarpa, Ricky Corey, and Rob O'Donnell. While seniors Bernie Kitching, Joe Connelly (captain), and Peter Harutunian made up the halfback line. The fullback line was comprised of one senior, Dan Beaulieu, and the rest juniors, Jay Takach, Scott Burke, Keith Walsh, Rich Walsh, and Sean Ronayne.

Despite the disappointment of the season, the team enjoyed strong spirit and comradarie. In fact on nights before games the team would gather at Christy's Pizza. This became such a "ritual," that the night before the last game against Stoneham the team planned a "Last Supper." This "Last Supper" proved beneficial when Reading came out with a four to nothing win, as a result of fancy foot work and on target passes. Truly, if the 1987 Varsity Rockets did not have the best record, they certainly had the best of times.

GOLF

High school golf consists of twelve players, eight of whom participate in varsity competition. The matches are set up so that you must compete as both an individual and as a team player. Representing Reading Memorial High School, our team qualified for the State Tournament, which will begin in the spring of 1988. Throughout the course of the season, the team became very close, leaving them with memories they will never forget.

Led by Rich Crosby, the golf team enjoyed another successful season. Some of their major achievements included qualifying for the State Tournament and having team member, Darren Moore, place first in the 1987 Middlesex League State Individual Golf Tournament.

This year's team was particularly close on and off the golf course. The eight varsity members and alternates supported each other throughout the season. Rich "Crosey" Crosby, the two year captain, was the backbone of the team. Robert "Scully" McKeil's motivation and intensity constantly pumped up the team. Mike "Opie" Johnson had quite an impressive season, leading the "linksters" with an 8-3-2 record. John "V.N." Chase had another productive season; using his raw talent, he managed to come up with several important wins including the Malden-Medford tri-match. Underclassman, Rick Morris, was tied with Mike Johnson for the most wins and also voted team captain for the 1988 season.

The team would like to thank their two fine coaches, Mr. Richard D. Gillis and Ted "Acer" Bryson.

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

This year's cross-country team had high hopes for a Middlesex League title, the first since 1977, but an early dual meet at Lexington upset their chances. The team did not lose their cool; instead, they pulled together to win the rest of their meets to finish a well deserved second place with an eight and one record.

This year's team had improved tremendously from the 1986 team, whose record was five and four for the season. Led by captain Jeff Croft and coaches Miss Pappalardo and Mr. Blodgett, the team practiced hard and produced three Middlesex League All-Stars, Jeff Croft, Ben Trevor and Bob Hart. Other runners added successful wins at important meets, such as Shannon Symes, Tom Fuller, Paul Chisholm, and Jason D'Antona. Hopefully next year's team will be able to capture that Middlesex League title, with captains Ben Trevor and Paul Chisholm leading the way.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

1987 was not quite as successful as past years for the girls' cross country team finishing with a five and four overall record for the season. Captains Erin McCormack and Nian Wan led the pack to some hard fought victories. Senior Katie Quinn held her ground on more than one occasion, while juniors Gretchen Guenther and Kerry Buckley both proved that seniors are not always the ones on top. Sophomores Kim Coakley and Amy Harootian continued to make themselves known with dedication and hard work.

Maybe next year will hold the winning season, with captain Kerry Buckley guiding the Rockettes to victory.

WRESTLING

The Reading Wrestling team had another fine season this year with a final record of 5-2, placing them second overall in the Middlesex League. Captain Karl Lieberman, who established a new team record of twenty-nine takedowns in one season, contributed many outstanding performances. Another fine season was had by senior Mike Spellman, who took first in his weight class in the Middlesex League Tournament. Mike Shattuck placed first in the Christmas Classic Tournament while Randy Lloyd, Justin Gould and Greg Selvitelli all placed second in their respective weight classes. Finally, the most notable individual accomplishment came from senior Dave Wilson, who qualified for the New England Tournament after having one of the best seasons of his career.

Highlights of the season included the defeats of many tough teams including Billerica, Burlington, and Shawsheen. With their best team finish of the season, the Rockets finished third at the Lowell Holiday Tournament. They also faired well at the State Tournament, finishing fifth overall.

BO WIN TRA

Once again this year the boys winter track team won the Middlesex League Title ending its seventh consecutive season undefeated. Led by co-captains Joe Connelly, in the mile and relay, and Mike Sewall, in the 300 and relay, the boys team totalled more points in dual meets than in the many years of competition. The team proved to be strong all around as many outstanding performances were given by junior Ben Trevor in the mile and relay, Dave Chetwynd in the shot put, Sean Ronayne and Mike Girouard in the 1000, along with newcomer Bernie Kitching in the dash and relay.

BOYS WINTER TRACK

The list of brilliant competitors also includes John Erwin in the 45 meter hurdles, Derek Watkins in the dash, 300, and the relay, Jeff Croft in the one mile, and Doug Fletcher in the high jump.

To end the season, the boys captured the State Relays and the State Class B Championship defeating many larger schools from numerous cities and towns.

The team looks to be strong again next year with developing underclassmen talent.

GIRLS' TRACK

The girls track team this winter, demonstrated some fine performances both individually and as a team. Starting off the season with a bang, the team defeated top ranked Lexington. As the season progressed Mary Conolly could be seen coming close to a school record in the 45 meter hurdles and Andrea Hall showing as always, lightning speed in the 600, 300 and the 4x400 relay. Also adding to the force were Paula and Pam Martins in the 300 and 50 meter dash respectively, Karin Anderson in the 1000, Erin McCormack and Katie Quinn in the 2 mile, Ann Higgott, and Erica Thompson in the 45 meter hurdles. After being plagued with injuries the team finished its season with only two losses and a more then respectable third place finish overall in the Middlesex League.

BASKETBALL

Led by captain Mark Flaherty the boys basketball team had a disappointing season. But, although the team's record showed more losses than wins they managed to produce many exciting, close games against Stoneham, Winchester and Melrose.

In past years coach Bill Carroll has had many varsity players returning, but, this year he was short, there were no returning letterman. Under the guidance of Bill Carroll the boys learned to work together and proved even a young team can be dangerous. One example of this was the highlight of the season. The Rockets' victory over tourney bound Belmont. The final score was 67-60, a defiant boost to the Rocket morale.

Next year the team will have a good start with Bill Lafferty, Bill Scribner, and Peter Klepies all returning.

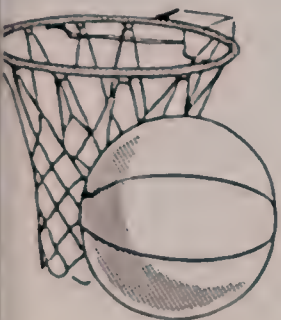

The girl's basketball team started off the season with a bang and a defeat of Lexington. Led by captain Thaya Lane and seniors Jill Anthony, Nicole Sinclair, and Gail Girasella, the girls had a moderately successful season while adjusting to new coach Mrs Hollis. High scorer Gail Girasella proved to be the force of the team. The team did lose a valuable player, Cathy Tucker, to an elbow injury but players like Derilyn Kenney and Jenn Hollis tried fervently to take off some of the heat. Up and coming players like Kathy Jarema promise to help the Rockettes for the future.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The scene is Boston Garden and the national anthem is playing. Thousands of screaming fans watch as two hockey teams face each other from their respective blue lines. On the surface the teams look equal, but inside there is a difference. One team has the edge, and this year the team with the edge, the team with the desire to win, is the ROCKETS. And they do win. In the North Division I Finals, the pucksters of Reading defeat Woburn by 5 to 1. As the final buzzer sounds, pandemonium breaks in the Reading stands.

The ROCKETS had an unbelievable season. Fans were treated to excellent shows of skating ability and stick-handling as the team captured the Middlesex League title. The highlight of the season was the victory over Woburn in the Boston Garden. At the beginning of the game there was a definite tension in the air. The winner of the game would be the Division 1 North Champions. During the regular season the Rockets had had trouble with Woburn, losing the first confrontation and tying the second. Coach Peter Doherty's first line stepped onto the ice with every intention of winning the game; they were determined not to let down their coach. Soon it was obvious Woburn would be defeated. The cheering from the Rocket fans drowned that from the Woburn supporters. In the end the score was 5 to 1, making the Reading Rockets Division 1 North Champions.

To the disappointment of the team and fans alike, the Division I State Championship title did not come to Reading as the Rockets fell to Catholic Memorial in their final game.

The girls gymnastics team had the most successful season for Reading Gymnastics in a long time. Led by quad-captains Patti Harootian, Kelly Wade, Marie Rivers and Kathleen Duff, the girls showed strength in many different events. The strength in the uneven parallel bars came in the form of Patti Harootian, Lauren D'Addario and Michele McGonagle. Harootian capped off her season with a score of 6.2 and McGonagle and D'Addario consistently scored in the 6's. The floor exercise proved to be the team's strongest event with Marie Rivers, Amy Harootian, Kim Coakley, Lauren D'Addario, Karen Caria and Michele McGonagle all scoring high throughout the season. On the beam, first year member Joanne Labo was able to stick the most routines. The team dominant forces in the vault were McGonagle and D'Addario. Constant support and encouragement was always coming from the four captains.

Under the direction of Dave Bunton, this years band consisting of more then fifty students, gave many outstanding performances. Along with performing at the half time shows, the band also participated in competitions where they scored very high. The season concluded with a bang at the Thanksgiving Day game, filled with balloons and loud cheers from the crowd. Finally, at the end of the year, the band showed their talent in a marvelous finale at the first annual Pops night.

ANYTHING GOES!

This year's annual spring production was Anything Goes. This musical, written by Cole Porter, entailed a setting on a cruise ship. The audience sat back and enjoyed wonderful performances by Doug Faria as Moon Face Martin, a soft hearted criminal who's one of the most wanted men in the country. Moon Face was accompanied by his sidekick, Bonnie, played by Tara Callaghan, a bubbling, definitely blond, floozy mad about Moon. Tara once again displayed her outstanding acting talents in this performance. Also outstanding was Jeff Mellin as Billy, a man who's in love with a girl who is already engaged and not interested. Mellin impressed the audience with his imitations of everything from a Chinaman to a sailor. Who is the belle he has fallen hard for? Hope, played by Barbara Covino, of course. Barbara in her, entertaining performance demonstrated her outstanding vocal talents. Along with Barbara, Gina Ranno displayed a superior singing voice as she played the one and only Reno Sweeney, night club singer and heartthrob. Finally Sir Evelyn, a proper Englishman who falls for a tramp, was played exquisitely by Mike Webb. A standing ovation for the performances of these cast members as well as the remaining cast.

PEER LEADERSHIP

Peer Leadership is a newly formed group this year. Devised of students from sophomore to senior year, these dedicated students attended two training sessions on drugs, alcohol, and suicide. With many hours of training behind them, the students visited the elementary and middle schools in Reading spreading the message of "Say no to drugs", educating students on drugs, alcohol, and suicide, and offering support to questioning students. This positive peer pressure hopefully will have a good impact on the community and influence the younger generations to make better decisions. A group of selected Peer Leaders and Middle School students also filmed a talk show on cable channel 3. The show featured the High School Students giving methods of dealing with stress and the Middle School Students commenting about and adding their own daily conflicts into the discussion. The Massachusetts Drug Task Force has made a $500 donation to the organization in their campaign against drugs. The organization was founded by Jane Fiori, a Reading resident and co-ordinator of the Reading Drug Task Force.

IMPRESSIONS

Impressions, the school literary magazine, is a publication which is written and produced solely by students. Upon collecting vast amounts of short stories, poems, art work and photography from the student body, the staff spends its time editing, cutting and pasting various pieces which will be published. Headed by editor Joanne Quimby, the process of publishing the magazine involved many hours of hard work typesetting, doing lay-outs, arranging and taking photographs and adding the right amount of art work to make each lay-out interesting. Through the fun and excitement much work is accomplished and the highlight of the usual meetings is a celebration of pizza. The long process of production of tiring but rewarding when the final product is seen. This year's final products included a "normal" literary publication, a parody which paralleled "The National Inquirer," and finally the annual publication for the plans of the class of '88 for the future.

Published biweekly within The Reading Chronicle, High Happenings is intended to inform the larger community about events at the high school. Led by editor Sarah Larson and advised by Dr. Mark Piechota, student journalists spent many hours in their efforts to publicize and record the many achievements and special activities of the RMHS student body.

The hard work and long hours that the leaders of the senior class put into making a long-awaited senior year a success were clearly evident in the turn of events this year. The Halloween Dance, a huge success, started us off on the right foot, with many seniors attending in one form or another. The first activity involved maintaining the long-time tradition of pumpkining, honoring Mr Brady, with a bombardment of pumpkins on Halloween night. The dedication of the officers shone through once again with a successful Hawaiian dance, which brought a breath of summer to March. June got closer, time flew faster, the dreaded "last" exams were finally finished. Then, the Senior Banquet and the Senior Prom came. Those two nights were very memorable, and finished off a great year.

This years junior class accomplished most of what they had planned. The year started off with the Junior Buffet which was a good fundraiser for the class. They then moved on to selling candy canes which was a lot of work, but payed off with a good profit. January came and the Junior Ski Trip to Mount Sutton, Canada took place. Fun was had by all and the skiing was great. They then joined up with the senior class officers and presented the Hawaiian Dance. This was one of the biggest dances of the year, over 300 people showed up. Spring finally came and it was time for the Junior Prom. It was held at the Crestview Plaza and 394 people were present. The Juniors had a successful year and are looking forward to an even more prosperous senior year.

DISTRIBUTIVE ED.

Distributive Education is a program where students involved take both a class and have first hand application of what they are learning in the class. The class involves the skills needed to run a business, including the amount of stock needed to successfully maintain it, keeping inventory, and operating a cash register. The application comes in two places. The first is in room 127-the school store. The school store is run by the students in this program in collaboration with Mr Levesque. Upon leaving school at 11:15, these students also go to a job where further application of what is learned can be applied. Each job must be pre-approved and each student must be evaluated periodically at his or her job.

PIONEER

It's 10:30. A light shines from a second floor room in the English wing. Among the few cars left in the front parking lot, along with three or four janitors from the night shift, is a green Dasher (sometimes accompanied by the well-oiled machine). A frequent scene caused by the staff of none other than the editors of Pioneer '88. Burning the midnight oil to make a deadline, the editors were hard at work. Frantically cropping pictures, making layouts, typing copy on the computer and occasionally stopping to eat something or sometimes to briefly dance, or maybe even stand on the desk and yell, "I Love yearbook!" Once again this activity was grossly understaffed, and this year it especially hurt as the editors decided to add some originality to the book, which took longer to design, and, in turn caused numerous scenes much like the one described. But, although many of the editors had bags under their eyes, from lack of sleep, they felt the yearbook was the best one in a long time so maybe all the hard work is worth it. Who knows?

This year's Thanksgiving Rally seemed especially effective, as the football team won its only game Thanksgiving Day. Among the activities at the rally were a tremendous performance by the band and the baton squad, followed by an exciting set of cheers by the senior squad, and an appearance by the soccer cheerleaders including a difficult pyramid at the end. Who could forget the annual Do ba Do ba cheer by Capt. Jeff Dorandi, Srs. Garth Shaunessy and Mrs. John Fiorj and Peter Tutas. And finally to cap off the affair the crowning of the homecoming queen. Winning for the class of 1988 this year was Patti Harootian.

This year's student council were involved in many activities. To start the year off was the annual canned food drive involving collecting cans from both the High School and both Junior Highs. From their the council formed a committee to get the jukebox back into the cafeteria. This turned out to be a successful and it was also enjoyed by the students. On to the sale of Reading High boxer shorts and from their to a very successful Lip Sinc contest. This contest turned out to be a lot of fun for the council, the participants, and the audience alike. Finally, to cap off the year, the council held a senior's prom for the senior citizens of the town at the Congregational Church

The Student Advisory Council, a group of several members of the freshman through senior classes, act as a representation of the whole school. At their periodical meetings they discuss issues involving student concerns as well as issues pertaining to the welfare of the school. The Council's main goal is to improve the school. Whether the problems brought up are small or large, the Council's aim is to take time to evaluate the situation and try to solve each problem.

This year SADD was once again busy spreading the message-Don't Drink and Drive to student sand the community at large. Again this year the memebership included over 100 students. The Executive Board had planned many successful activities, among them, the annual bake sale, Parents Night, the sale of T-shirts with the slogan "only Turkey's drink and drive", skits in the Human Behavior classes, and finally a guest speaker and large assembly for the safe prom campaign. In addition to these standard events, SADD two new ones. The first was painting the spped bumps with slogans and the second placing yellow ribbons on prom bound students lockers to remind them not to drink and drive. SADD's impact in the community is showing and next year's members look forward to another successful year.

Focus is an alternative education program intended to provide a close-knit, supportive community which will enable a variety of students to succeed at RMHS. Despite drastic changes in staffing this year, the community came together and engaged in a number of successful activities. As a fundraising activity, the group provided an Italian buffet for the faculty; carrying out their community service commitments, members of the group escorted SEEM students to the circus and a bowling outing, and conducted a car wash to raise funds for a needy cause; and just for fun, the community fielded flag football, floor hockey and softball teams which competed with other alternative programs.

CLASS OFFICERS

Seated: President Kristen DuLong Standing: Sean Boutin, Sam Unknown, Sean Bugbee

This year the class of '91 has been trying to become united so that their next three years at RMHS will be successful. This year the class had a ski trip and a trip to Canobie Lake Park. The class hopes to raise enough money in order to organize a trip to Aruba where the class advisor, Mr. Terilli, is building a hotel. The class hopes to go on this trip during its senior year.

The Sophomore Class jumped right into things this year, led by President Amy Harootian and Vice President Rob Spadafora. This class of '90 is unique in that it is always doing things for its community as well as its class. They started their sophomore year with a haunted house to supply enjoyment for all the younger children in the town. The advisors Miss Visconte and Mr. DeBeck were kept busy chaperoning a ski trip to Loon Mountain in February. Other activities their class has done were a bake sale (proceeds went to the Animal Rescue League of Boston), a Walk for Hunger Walkathon and a sophomore semi-formal at the end of the year.
